Once logged into your account, click on your initials in the profile button and click on 'Settings':

An IEA admin will review your request (and ask for further information if needed) before validation: once associated with your account, the Academic discount will be automatically applied to eligible products you put in your shopping cart.

Please kindly wait for the user type request to be validated (you will receive a notification by email) before placing your order (or you will not benefit from the reduced pricing.)

Please note that you need to register with your academic email – Gmail, Yahoo, Hotmail, Outlook, and other generic email addresses are not accepted for user type requests.

To modify your email address, go to the Settings of your account and update your email address (you will receive an automatic email to verify your email address.)
